

Training broadens vision of trainees: Mr. Justice Jawad Hassan

Judge, LHC, urges judicial officers to be agile learners

Islamabad: “We live in the constantly changing world. It always will be. We must grasp new realities and learn the desired skills and new approaches to laws become effective individuals and judicial officers.”

Mr. Justice Jawad Hassan, Judge, Lahore High Court, expressed these views in the certificate awarding ceremony at the conclusion of a one-week training course at the Federal Judicial Academy on the topic “New Laws” for Additional District & Sessions Judges on Saturday, in which he was the chief guest.

Regarding the importance of new laws, their relevance and effective application, he said, “In this globalized world, we have to grapple with new issues and questions of law. In this age of technology, we have to deal with many horrendous issues such as money laundering, terrorist-financing, Intellectual Property Rights and such like other matters both national and global in nature, therefore, we must have to be agile learners, adapt and learn new laws ,among others things, quickly in a new fast-changing environment.

He further said, “Recognizing the nature of emerging changes and challenges is key to examining the current context in which we live, and the major changes to be expected in our future that should inform how we think of education training today because it is a question of preparing our generations for the future and saving our future. In this context, a key concern is respect for new skills, equipping ourselves with new tools of trade and aligning those with effective delivery of justice to the people.”

He said, “We have to learn an enormous amount become effective judges. There are various ways to broaden the perspective and vision. Trainings always stand out to broaden the vision. These trainings not only provide us the opportunity to learn from one another but also widen the vision for research but also bring improvements the quality of judgments

Mr. Fakhar Hayat, Director General of the Academy, presented his welcome speech, an introduction of the chief guest and also an overview of the training course. “ Through this training the Academy has made every effort to provide you practical and insightful education and training, it has passed down such knowledge and values, which if put in practice by all you, certainly make a difference wherever you are posted” , he concluded.

Twenty one Additional District and Sessions Judges from all over Pakistan, Azad Jammu and Kashmir and Gilgit-Baltistan were awarded certificates in this weeklong training course.
